FLIER IN CLASH OVER PHOTOS OF NOBILE RESCUE

Berlin, July 23 (AP)—Erich Stoll, German news reporter, who went to Spitzbergen to take pictures of the Italia rescue operations, is quoted in a Mittag Am Zeitung dispatch from Stockholm, as saying there were frequent differences between Pilot Chukhnovsky, Russian flier aboard the Krassin and Captain Filippo Zappi, one of the men rescued with the Malagren group.

Stoll said that the differences were chiefly over Captain Zappi's insistence that photographs taken by the Chukhnovsky plane which originally discovered the walking party be developed immediately, whereas Chukhnovsky preferred to keep the negatives until better developing conditions were available.

The news reporter also said that the chief topic of conversation aboard the Krassin was Dr. Finn Malmer's fate, especially as Chukhnovsky insists that on the day he first saw the group, there were creative championship in the past, but today he is taking it too seriously or using much at all in the coming battle.

Tomorrow, as Turner flies by airplane to this city his previous bid will be covered by an insurance policy for $500,000. Taken out by his manager, Billy Gilman. The premium was $120 and Philadelphia company wrote the policy, settling up the debt among several other companies.

ILLEGALLY CRUISING
If Gene gets any relaxation out of his position as doubtful, he will need it, according to many fight fans who looked back to two days from the up-to-date training camp of the title holder, for they reported him on the verge of that drive and weary appearance that marks the professional.

Those reports were taken with a grain of salt by the wise ones. For over the wire reports of perfect condition amid rumors in Rome and the fine hand of Rickard, trying to make the match shape up as more even-stevens, was detected in the adverse rumors about the ex-Marina.

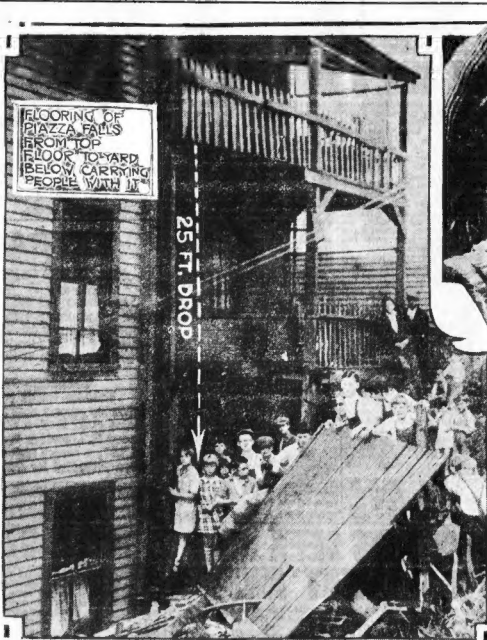

However, who will share tomorrow attention from the yacht on which he is cruising, is not on Jersey straits, wound up his training stints with lots of vigorous work and gave the fans at his fair Haven camp a glimpse of the hope to use in the ring tomorrow night.

"I'll do my best and I hope to win," was his modest statement as he took to the water, strange statement for a contender, but it will doubtless be edited by managers and promoters into a close-out, straight-off-the-prediction of victory "we expect from him through the ropes."

seven policemen were injured and eight strikers arrested.

The pickets, forming a line about a quarter of a mile long, were led by Miss Elizabeth Kennedy of Boston and were allowed to move up and down unmolested by the police. A crowd of spectators estimated at 7500 was on hand, apparently in the hope that hostilities would be resumed, but they were disappointed.

The police quickly outnumbered, made an effort to break up the line, but this disrupted the demonstration. The police were the most violent when the hour for the mill to open was past.

Jackson W. Wales, describing himself as a Harvard student, was arrested on a warrant charging rioting and disturbing the peace last night. He has been a volunteer leader of the textile workers and was notified a picket line with Miss Marion Boudreau when she was taken into custody last night.

Yesterday's outbreak, which came shortly after a new move to settle the controversy caused by a 10 per cent wage cut, was revived from the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, was the most violent since the 35,000 operatives walked out.

Riotes and fire were used by the strikers to prevent the police from clearing the strike with considerable effect. Much severely injured were Detective Sergeant William H. McCarthy, struck by a stone and badly lacerated; Paulmann Riverside before, clubbed and Reserve Officer Francis J. Wilson, struck by stone.

STATE HOUSE "RUM CASE" ENDED BY HOUSE VOTE

The Legislature today washed its hands of the State House rum investigation when the House accepted the report of the conference committee, and decided to let the matter drop.

The Senate refused to concur in this drastic handling of the situation and the matter was dropped.

A special session of the Legislature to go forward with impeachment proceedings against former Atty. Gen. Arthur K. Reading hangs as the result of undenial published stories that Reading will announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor as soon as the Legislature has prorogued.

The resolve reads: "That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that in the event of Arthur K. Reading becoming a candidate for nomination or election to any public office after prorogation of the General Court in the current year, His Excellency the Governor should call a special session of the General Court for the purpose of taking action in the matter of impeaching Arthur K. New York, July 25 (INS)—Characterizing herself as the panacea for the milliladine in his besetting Maxwell Bodenheim, blonde Barbara Young today waited for the poet of Greenwich Village to emerge from his hiding and be healed. ## EVERY BONE HAS ITS MARROW, DOG ENDS

Tastefully decorated with lolling tongues, the city's leading—and training—cannibals from Alameda to Schipperke, met up today with the annual dog days.

It was a warm meeting, doggone it, and even the short-haired chaps were hard put to it to keep their studded collars from wilting.

Even Elmer the Alameda was a bit low on snuff and his rich brogue was somewhat soggy on the edges when he was asked to comment on the sultry conditions as affecting dogdom.

"There is always a silver lining," said Elmer thoughtfully, "and in this case you can find some marrow. What I mean, in short, is that thank heaven we don't have to wear muzzles in these here dog days."

DOG STAR'S THE BUNK
"It's too bad," commented one, "that you hounds are not able to sweat in a free and easy manner, instead of only by the tongue, thus affording a broader and more comprehensive cooling surface."

"Oh, well," responded Elmer, switching to a Scottish dialect, "in that event we might have to work and earn our bones by the sweat of the brow. And it's no too hot. Much easier to lie down in a cool corner."

"Do you believe, Elmer, the popular theory that this dog star Sirius, now in its ascendancy, affects you people adversely?"
"That's a lot of mongrel, a bunch of hooey, if I may say it," declared Elmer. "It's hot anyway, and it is hot because that the dog star burns off at the hottest season of the year."

AFFECTS YOU HUMANS.

"Did you ever see the dog star, Elmer?"

"Only once—when my master arrived home before the sun and tried to let it save him one lock."

"No, it wasn't the right dog."

"Oh, Ho!" he chuckled, "probably wasn't even the right house to work."

"As a matter of fact," said Elmer, "it was on a different street. That's what the dog days do to you humans."

BOOTLEG RINGS CORRUPTING U. S., SAYS BAR

Seattle, July 25 (AP)—With the picture of an alleged criminal syndicate in many United States urban centers dominated and financed by the bootlegging industry before them today, delegates to the American Bar Association convention planned to hear the annual address of S. H. Ladd, president, and other officials of the bar and elect members.

Growing lack of confidence in the integrity of all public officials because of "barbery and corruption in public office" by bootleg money was depicted in a report read by Arthur M. Ladd, president of the St. Louis Bar Association, in the presence of his brother, Arthur V. Ladd, St. Louis.

Ladd, whose report was based on a symposium of opinions of officials, publishers and enforcement agents in many representative large cities, placed "the real problem of crime and failure of justice in many parts of the country" directly at the door of the bootlegging industry.

BRIBERY IS RAMPANT

"Bribery and corruption have become common occurrences," he said, "because the cupidity of politicians and state and government officials generally has been excited by the enormous profits of bootlegging, which, being unlawful, are considered legitimate profits."

By-products of the illegal industry, the bootlegging and the bootlegging industry, often utilize their spare moments in influencing elections by terrorizing, and in stationing schemes, Ladd said.

"Many murders, kidnappings and other major crimes are directly chargeable to this source," Ladd reported more or less in violation of the law in a large majority of American cities of 100,000 population and over.

DRAGNET ACTION NEEDED

A vigilant and informed public, acting on honest in office, was the remedy suggested. Permanent improvement of national law enforcement, organized bureau of criminal activities to aid in determining these offenders, rapid enforcement or repeal of the prohibition law and breaking up of gang rule and corruption of officials were other suggestions for dealing with the professional criminal class.

New York and Chicago were called leading crime centers, while conditions in other large cities were given detailed study.

Cities contributing reports for the symposium included Washington, Boston, Detroit, St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Seattle, Denver, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Providence, Toledo, Akron, Memphis, St. Paul, Charleston, A. C. Oklahoma City, Fort Worth and Dallas.

HEAT THREATENS CROPS; ITALY PRAYS FOR RAIN

Rome, July 25 (AP)—Crops in the Frieste region have suffered so much in the heat wave that the nation's chief of agriculture, Dr. Paolo, has ordered a procession to pray for rain. Religious societies marched with their banners.

Two deaths from sunstroke and four drownings were the result of the other day of unrelenting heat. Tripoli in Africa was not compared with Italy, the temperature here being 88 Fahrenheit. At Locca, in Piedmont, the thermometer hit 90, the sun sweated with the mercury at 95.

SPEND $10,000 MORE ON YALE FINE ARTS TOWER

New Haven, July 25 (AP)—Alterations to the unfinished tower of the new fine arts building at Yale University will cost $10,000, it was announced today. The original plans of Eberton Swartwout, the architect, called for much more detail on the new tower, but this was omitted.

With the tower almost finished, Yale officials felt it was not harmony with the rest of the structure and the original plans were adopted. Workmen are removing 16 layers of stone preparatory to making the suggested changes. The building when finished will have cost $2,225,000.

RUSSIAN FLIER DIES RATHER THAN HIT CROWD

Moscow, July 25 (AP)—A tragic story of the self-sacrificing death of Dinkovskiy Paviot, the Soviet's most prominent aviator, who is believed to have crashed deliberately rather than try to save his own life by endangering spectators at an aviation exhibition, is published by the Moscow newspapers today.

Paviot was giving a stunt demonstration before high aviation authorities and foreign guests at Moscow's airfield in a small monoplane of his own construction when the plane suddenly dived to the ground and crashed a few yards from spectators. Some aviation experts said Paviot could have saved his life by a forced landing among the spectators.

Can a Girl Have Too Much Feminine Appeal?

WHY HAS GINGER BEFORE

Nancy Deane, golden haired, dark eyed, has lived all her life with the O'Days in Worcester. For two years she has worked in a luncheonette to help. There she meets John Blair who invites her to go to the circus. Nancy loses her job and learns she is really the granddaughter of the rich Montgomery Deane of Boston and that her mother, Julia Abbott, a circus performer, is coming to town and wants to see the baby she deserted 18 years before. Nancy goes to the show with John and sees Julie drop from a trapeze; she rushes wildly to the hospital where her mother dies telling her she loved her father. Nancy suddenly decides to go to Boston and Blair, whom she has grown to admire, gives her a letter to a college friend who runs a mill there. On the train she meets one Ginger Varden, a slungy up-to-date, good hearted model who takes her to her own boarding house and invites her to share her room. Nancy is shocked at this disorder and doesn't know quite what to think of her companion.

THEATER I

"A NANCY Deane in the book" Jerry Durant stuck his grinning face into Ginger's room without waiting for either of the girls to answer his knock. This was the second time he and his boy had come right into the room. Nancy was glad they had not come a few minutes earlier when Ginger was packing up and down in her negligee, talking about her girlish figure, she decided that this sort of thing was just her new companions meant by being broad-minded.

WELL, CAN'T A HORSE ERR A BIT AT TIMES?

The girl was a very pretty girl, and she was very young. The girl was a very pretty girl, and she was very young. The girl was a very pretty girl, and she was very young.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land.
In order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of a new England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

We Build More Ships

First Report on the Working of the Merchant Marine Bill

When Congressman Wallace H. White of the Second Maine District appeared a night or two ago before the Lewiston-Auburn Rotary Club, one of the things his neighbors wanted to know was "how the White bill is working."

The White bill, "to further develop an American Merchant Marine, to assure its permanence in the transportation of the foreign trade of the United States, and for other purposes," was enacted into law scarcely two months ago.

It offers, for the first time since the early days of the Republic, the prospect that the Merchant Marine may be again restored to the proud position it once held upon the seas.

The promise of the White bill is that instead of carrying more 30 per cent of the overseas commerce of the United States in American ships, instead of having only 2 per cent of the tonnage of the world under construction in our shipyards, we shall have under construction in these yards before long a substantial part of the tonnage of the world and the great majority of the ships that come from foreign ports into our ports, and sail from our ports to foreign ports, will fly the American flag.

These promises, Congressman White must have been pleased to report to the folk back home, are on the way to fulfillment.

After so brief an interval no one would have been surprised to be told that it is "too early" to estimate the fruits of the new law, or to be asked to give the administrative officers of the Government "further time," for conference, deliberation and, perhaps, a survey.

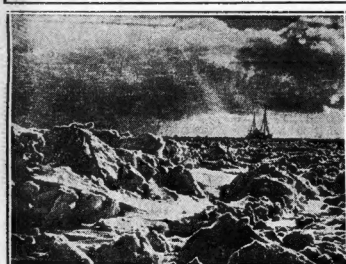

What Mr. White reported is that there are today draft contracts for EIGHTEEN TIMES AS MUCH SHIPPING AS HAS BEEN PRODUCED IN THE UNITED STATES DURING THE PAST SIX YEARS.

The White bill, his author said last May, is a "response to the desire of the American people."

The results already attained prove that Mr. White knew what he was talking about. Foreign hopes that our Merchant Marine was to strike its flag are to be completely dashed.

True, Noble Courage

Arctic and Antarctic Wastes Have Seen It Often

ON THIS ICE NOBLE'S RESCUER HAD TO LAND

These pictures make plain to every eye the courage of the Swedish flier who rescued Noble, head of the North Pole expedition. The picture above shows the "landing field" that lies beneath them as they searched for men marooned close to the North Pole inside the Arctic Circle.

In that circle, close to the point where our "North Pole" points toward the North Star, stretch thousands of dreary square miles of such ice as this. Everything is rough, uneven,

In this dreary waste, by the truly miraculous powers of science and human courage, the Noble expedition, one after another, were located—thanks to the radio, which it

We'll All Be Gliding Soon

THE HOUNDS OF GOD ACROSS THE YEARS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE was one great mind of the nineteenth century that knew how to read his Bible. Abraham Lincoln had Moses and Pharaoh in his mind when he wrote his second inaugural address, the noblest state paper of America: "Fondly do we hope and fervently do we pray that this scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God will that it continue until all the wealth piled up by the bondman's 250 years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said 3000 years ago, so still it must be said, 'The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.'"

Lincoln was of the Moses type; he did not laugh at the strange story of the plagues, he shuddered; he was finding out what it meant; he knew about "The Hounds of God."

The hounds of God across the years
Are running swift and true;
Far and away they seem to play,
But they're tracking me and you.

The king is seated on his throne,
His courtiers stand around him;
They see him start and grasp his heart—
The hounds of God have found him.

At low midnight the wastrel wakes,
Afraid upon his bed;
The far off sounds of the baying hounds
Are ringing in his head.

The wicked woman waxes her lips,
And says, "'Tis naught, 'tis naught!'"
But the velvet feet of the hounds so fleet
Whisper behind her thought.

They have torn great empires limb from limb,
They have conquered the conquerors,
And their teeth have hurt for sins of dirt
In plagues that are worse than wars.

They have cruelly taken the old man downy

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MANY evil things can happen to a man in this life, but nothing can be more dangerous to him than too much comfort.

Quoted—we're always praying and laboring for lasting comfort, yet nothing would destroy us more quickly than such contentment if we could obtain it.

Live things do not rest in comfort. Live things struggle. Live things rebel, shift, adjust, reach out, move from point to point—always guided by new needs, new desires. Always restless, uncomfortable, often in danger.

This is true of all forms of life—the simplest as well as the most complex. Take a turnip for example. A turnip seems a stupid thing, but even a turnip puts up a whole of a sort for existence. Each turnip rootlet is a triumph against the power of darkness. Before that rootlet can be achieved, dense earth must be penetrated, rocks, stones, surmounted, water and food must be found. The turnip cannot rest a moment if it is to develop that rootlet. It cannot for one moment be quite content or comfortable. It must constantly be taking on a new hazard.

A satisfied turnip would be a dead turnip—pronto! There are no satisfied turnips in a good vegetable patch, but there are many of them in the human race. Indeed, many of us desire nothing better than to be satisfied turnips. If all our difficulties could be smoothed away—Accidents, low pay, a nice little house, and a fifty little cake and a gang of good eggs and a pension, comfortable income—say $50 per month—no more money, no trouble, no accidents—if we could have all that then life would be PERFECT.

But life really wouldn't be perfect under these conditions.

They have bitten the babe at the breast;
For there's never a sin of which or kin
Can escape their fateful quest.

Before us goes God's angel tall,
Flying upon the wind;
And sweet as dawn he beckons us on—
But the hounds of God are behind!

NEW YORK, July 25.—The business of being a master of ceremony at cabarets, night clubs, theaters and movies has become one of the highest paid jobs in the world of entertainment. Salaries in instances surpass those of the stars in the legitimate theater.

Ballet started it with his Chauncey Source, slipping in and out and exploding conversation like a bottle of pop. The first American master of ceremony was the blond-faceted Raymond Hitchcock, who took tickets at his own show and wandered up and down the side-shaking bands with customers.

The success of Texas Guinan was in her capitalization of the trick. She attracted a large spending ringlode patronage among those who went there only to be targets for her substituted sales. They pursued to be huiled with "Hello, Sucker!"

TODAY IN NEW YORK there are probably a dozen masters of ceremony whose weekly pay checks are used to fill in the gliding cinema. People bring the highly exploited Paul Bush from Chicago to Broadway at $1000 a week for a long engagement. He was little known outside of the Windy City.

AMONG THE MOST ADROIT and highly paid birds are Ben Bernie, Paul Fay, Ed Wynn, Julia Tannen, Dr. Rockwell, Phil Baker, and no benefit is a quote complete without Al Jolson or Eddie Cantor to introduce the acts and cash the customers.

IN NEW YORK—as this is written and according to a theatrical agency—there are 125 masters of ceremony functioning. They include clubs in Bowery burlesque halls, coffee houses of the East Side, the Broadway cabarets, night clubs and glorified musical reviews.

THIS master of ceremony racket is a sop to almost nobody. New Yorkers ache to be noticed. Most of us are loners because we care to be noticed, and when someone is as big as a barn before a big crowd of folk, we are feeling the same as a fellow about town, no matter how hyperthyroidic we may be. And this attitude is not particularly confined to Manhattan.

HAVING been twitted from the rostrum at various times by Ben Bernie, Roger Wolfe Kahn, Eddie Cantor, George White, Texas Guinan, Paul Whiteman, Will H. Hays, Ed Jolson, Ed Wynn, Julia Tannen, Raymond Hitchcock and Leah Hadley, I'm just happy enough to have received a faint glow out of such incident. And the fellow who says he is not similarly affected is suspect of fibbing.

ABOUT the only section of New York acquiring a Sunday may be in Wall st. and surrounding neighborhood. The Substantial has pronounced. A staid building have a silent grandeur—an efficacy in its staidness. They are people walking slowly among the graves of Trinity and St. Paul's. Persons too and flatter in the canyons and the daily burials of the world seem far away.

SEVERAL Broadway movie houses are passing out free copies of morning papers to patrons of their late performances. That helps them to forest.

THE latest in doodads are cameras in colors matching the lady's costume. They resemble an ordinary vanity case, and those who carry them are able to snap their friends without looking like a kodakist tourist.

ONE of those Russian performers who will snarl into a sitting down dance at the first whizen of an accordion has his foot caught in a lady's chair in a cabaret the other night and the lady sat perk up on the floor. Her escort took a ban in the footwork, and the gentlemen will have to pay for several days, even to eat.

THE ship in the lower picture is one of the rescue ships sent by the Swedes, accompanied by airplanes. Noble, leader of the ill-fated polar expedition, was taken away in an airplane. Lundborg, who rescued him, returned, upset his machine such a landing as you see here, and was himself marooned on the ice floe.

Then came the powerful Russian ice-breaker, sent out by the Bolshevik Government, and rescued all that was left of the Noble group. Three others who crossed the ice, walking on such a horrible landscape as this FOR FORTY-THREE DAYS, were identified by fliers and picked up by the ship.

These pictures are printed to remind you of the things that men can do, guided by SCIENCE, and enabled to defy all danger by LOSTY COURAGE.

It is for us that live in such ease and safety to pay tribute to these heroic men and thank Providence that the human race produces them.

Against the Barmoids

Parliament in England will consider a bill for the prevention of barmoids. The existence of barmoids in England is a fine example of the policy of non-interference in English government. It moves only when forced by public opinion or economic situations which have become impossible. Parliament may pass the barmoid-prevention bill, but we should not mean for us to be up, even though most sensible people are barmoids in nature of it.
